North American Rockwell's proposed space shuttle craft.

Fleets of marvelous vehicles whirling through space—what do these futuristic illustrations suggest to you? A small boy's dreams? Science fiction? Doodling?

No, the answer is that they are "artists' concepts" showing designs and studies being worked out for NASA by North American Rockwell's Space Division (except top right, NASA's own). There's little or no fantasy here. The designs haven't been photographed, of course, because they haven't yet been built. But they could be. Each one has been worked out down to the smallest nut and bolt. There are specifications, blueprints—and the artist's concept, which is considered an important part of the preliminary development of a project.

It helps scientists to know just what the finished design will look like as well as what it will do. So the artist's concept is carried out with great care, by first rate artists, often in full color. It follows a tradition which goes back with distinction to at least the time of the greatest scientific illustrator of all, Leonardo da Vinci. And it can give the general public exciting glimpses of what's in the air (or likely to be).

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To some observers, the American film industry has never been in worse chaos. To producer-director Stanley Kramer, "This is the most exciting time to be making movies."

Hollywood's perennial maverick, Kramer has been fighting the system while working within it, dating back to his emergence as a maker of provocative films. He's still at it.

Still boyish in appearance and enthusiasm at 57, Kramer was in a reflective mood as he approached the end of filming his 10th picture as a director, "Bless the Beasts and the Children." He has long battled the economics of the movie business, and he commented:

"Sure, this period has been tough on the studios and those who work in them. But this is also a very exciting time for film as an art."

"Before, I was competing with a few hundred other film makers within the Establishment. Now there are 150,000 people making films, or trying to. Young people make films today the way they used to write novels."

The younger generation is Kramer's concern in the new film, based on a novel by Glendon Swarthout. The story involves six overprivileged teenage boys who break out of summer camp to save a buffalo herd from a state-licensed hunt.

Kramer has directed some of the industry's biggest stars, from Sophia Loren to Spencer Tracy. His six youthful stars are unknowns.

"This picture goes right back to my beginnings with 'Home of the Brave,'" he said, recalling his 1949 film of racial intolerance. "We shot that one with an unknown cast and a limited budget. It cost $380,000 and grossed $8.1 million, which was amazing in those years."

"Bless the Beasts and the Children" is expected to cost $1.3 million, remarkably cheap for a film that required lengthy locations in Prescott, Ariz., and Catalina Island off the Southern California coast.

Tuesday, October 20

The American Legion Auxiliary Leslie Huddleston Unit 12 will meet with the Post Tuesday, October 20 at 7 p.m. in the National Guard Armory for a potluck supper. The ladies are asked to bring a vegetable, a salad or a desert. Herbert L. Hoxie, FBI agent at Little Rock, will be the special guest speaker.

The Fidelis Class of the First United Methodist Church will meet for a class party October 20th at 7:00 p.m. in the Fellowship hall of the church. All members and associate members are invited.

Wednesday, October 21

There will be a call meeting of the Junior Auxiliary Wednesday, Oct. 21 at 9:30 a.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office. At 10 a.m., Larry Patterson will speak on the need for Juvenile Probation Officers. All interested persons are invited to come and hear Mr. Patterson.

The Beryl Henry PTA Study Group will meet Wednesday, October 21 at 10:30 a.m. in the Douglas Building. Mrs. Bennett Wood will have the program. This was originally scheduled for Tuesday, October 20.

Thursday, October 22

The Hope B & PW Club will serve coffee at the Hope Chamber of Commerce conference room 9:30-11 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. Thursday, October 22 in observance of National Business Women's Week. The public is invited, and there will be no charge.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "The Jim Nabors Hour," now in its second season on CBS, is one of the more popular variety hours on the air. It is generally a good show, but is particularly interesting because of the way Nabors is presented. He is a blend of Gomer Pyle, boob and singer. Nabors played Gomer for so many seasons that all he has to do is use that high squeaky voice and put on his clown's expression. Suddenly it's like old times except the Marine uniform is missing.

The show also has just about the best production values around. It is lavishly produced. The music is excellent, with a big orchestra, a chorus of singers and dancers. It also has stunning costumes. And Jim has become one of the most dramatically dressed male series stars.

But the comedy interludes demonstrated the weakest part of the hour. Nabors, of course, always plays Gomer. He was Gomer in a French Foreign Legion uniform in the first sketch Thursday. He was Gomer with another name in the weekly boarding house sketch with Frank Sutton. He tried hard not to be Gomer—and almost made it—in a hospital sketch with guest star Glen Campbell, playing a loud boor visiting a sick man. All the sketches were loud and well rehearsed, but weren't very funny.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

HENEN ASKS FOR READER ANSWERS

Dear Readers: Many of you write, "I read the question, cover up your answer, then see how close I come to your solution — or reaction."

Well, here's your chance to play Helen Help US!

Below is a problem which has no easy way out, so I'm asking my readers to send me their answers. I'll publish the best, and I'll also keep count of how many modern young people still put wedding vows before personal happiness. It may be an intriguing experiment, yes?

(How do I vote? When in doubt, an advice columnist says, "Wait a while and see.") Sometimes "true love" isn't where one thinks she has found it.)

Fortwith: Dear Helen: Fifteen months ago my boyfriend of three years, Jimmy, and I had a stupid fight and broke up. To spite him I accepted a date the next night with Ted, and we saw each other all that week. Then he gave me his ring. I took it only to show Jimmy I wasn't hurtin', which I was.

The next day, however, Jim called. After we made up I told him about Ted, expecting him to understand. Instead he got furious, and said if I ever wanted to come back, I'd come crawling. So that was the end of that.

I realize it was a case of pride that kept us apart. Also, Ted was good for my ego. He adored me. Nothing was too good. He'd turn the world upside down for me. After three months we progressed to an affair, and I got pregnant. Actually we had intercourse only once, and I regretted it terribly, but the damage was done. We had to get married. Ted wouldn't have it any other way.

Just before the wedding, Jimmy begged me to come back to him, but I couldn't hurt Ted. I thought we'd both get over this. Ted was so happy about the marriage and the coming baby, and I was at the point where I couldn't think.

We moved away from town so I couldn't bump into Jimmy. I destroyed everything that had anything to do with him. I really tried to be a good wife. When the baby came, we seemed very happy and contented. Ted said that now he had everything he'd ever wanted.

Then the inevitable happened—I ran into Jimmy, and the past months of resolutions were all gone. Instead of resenting my baby, he said he wanted her for his own — and me for his wife. I decided to ask Ted for a divorce but, Helen, I couldn't. I know now I've never loved him, and I may always love Jimmy. But I care so much for Ted (another kind of love, I guess) that I can't hurt him.

Do I stay with him out of loyalty, or crush him by turning to my first and only real love? — JOAN

.... Okay, readers, send me your answers. Which will win — romance or reality? Stay tuned for the next episode in this real-life drama — sometime in November. — H.

Dear Helen: In our city they let high school and college students come to classes in any kind of clothes — girls in pants, guys in jeans. You can even go barefoot in college. But in junior hi, we still have to wear dresses and tucked-in shirts. Is this fair? — DISCRIMINATED AGAINST Dear Dis:

No. And I'm sure the rules will be changed soon. Relaxed dress codes filter down through the school system fast, once they've gotten a start. You'll see. — H

It was birthday time for the Hope B&PW Club when a dinner meeting was held at the Diamond on October 8. Organized 46 years ago, the Hope Club assembled in a festive mood and found the serving tables decorated with gaily wrapped packages and burning candles. A "cake" made of wrapped packages in graduating sizes was on the head table.

Dr. S.A. Whitlow was a special guest at the "party," and he took all the group on a trip to Latin America, Cuba and Hawaii by means of colored slides he had made while visiting those countries. His commentary accompanying the film provided added enjoyment.

Club president Mary Andrews welcomed the 26 attending, including 3 guests, Dr. and Mrs. Whitlow and Mrs. Lonnie Hargis. She also announced that a district meeting would be held in DeQueen October 24-25 and urged as many as possible to attend.

Margie Vickers called attention to National Business Women's Week, October 18-24, and told of the breakfast meeting at the Diamond on Monday, October 19 for all B & PW Club members, and the coffee at the Chamber of Commerce conference room 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday, October 22 to which the public is invited free of charge.

The World Affairs Committee, Bonnie Beckworth, Martha Stephenson, Ora Mae Moody and Mary Anita Laseter; was in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

FILM DEBUT

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Arkin will make his film directorial debut on "Little Murders," a play by Jules Feiffer. It will also be the first of three pictures to be made under the new Brodsky-Gould Productions, Inc. banner, the first screenplay for playwright Feiffer and the first effort as a producer for actor Elliott Gould. Gould will also star in "Little Murders," which begins production in April in New York for 20th Century Fox.

The other two films in the Jack Brodsky-Gould slate are "The Days and Nights of Beebe Fenslermaker" and "The Assistant," from Bernard Malamud's novel.

Y and Z, the old auction bridge experts, had decided that contract was a pretty good game. Z said, "This JACOBY MODERN is sensible. I like my partners to raise me as much as they can and I like to decide about going on without being forced to do so."

Then he took his accustomed seat in the South position and proceeded to open with one heart.

Y, sitting North, looked over his cards carefully. Here was a good chance to give a limit raise, but his hand looked a trifle too good to settle for less than game. It was also a trifle too good for a semipreemptive jump to four but Y had learned about limit raises and was going to give one. He bid four hearts and that was all Z needed. He bid slam.

Z won the spade lead in dummy and called for the jack of hearts. East covered with the king. Z won with the ace and went back to dummy with the king of clubs and finessed East's 10. After that start, it was just a matter of mopping up the remaining tricks.

A brash young kibitzer whispered, "What a lucky play. Doesn't the old man know that he should have led a low heart from dummy?"

Z's ears are still pretty good. He turned to the young man and said, "When I was a very young man, I learned the correct way to play every card combination. With 10 trumps and missing king-10-small, the correct play is to lead the honor. If the second player shows out, you let fourth hand take his king immediately. If second hand plays low, you finesse. If second hand covers, you play your ace and pick up the 10-spade later on. If I had led a low trump from dummy and played my queen, I would have lost a trick to East. This way, I made an overtrick without risking my contract."

Healthful Eating Hinges On Types of Fats

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Fat facts cause about as much confusion as any aspect of the diet. It makes a difference whether you are talking about saturated fats or unsaturated fats and whether the unsaturated fats are polyunsaturated or not.

As far as calories are concerned, it does not make any difference which kind of fat you eat. Regardless of its type, a gram of fat contains about nine calories (a level teaspoonful of margarine contains about 25 calories). If you need to limit the calories you eat, you must limit all types of fat in your diet.

Generally speaking, fats that tend to be solid at room temperature are saturated fats. This includes animal fat found in beef, pork, lard, solid vegetable margarines, shortening and butterfat in dairy products. There are a few liquid fats that are saturated fats; the worst offender is coconut oil.

Unsaturated fats are usually liquid, or soft at room temperature. Most fish oils are unsaturated, which is probably related to the cold water environment in which they live and swim. Vegetable oils, such as corn oil, safflower oil and soybean oil, are unsaturated fats.

It is important to appreciate that a saturated fat contains the maximum amount of hydrogen. An unsaturated fat contains less hydrogen. The less hydrogen it contains the more unsaturated it is. Hence, polyunsaturated. You will see reference to this on food labels. A food that has been "hydrogenated" or "partially hydrogenated" has been converted to a solid or saturated fat and is not as good for you.

Most heart specialists and the American Heart Association agree that if you eat too much saturated fat you are more likely to develop fatty deposits in the arteries, which, in turn, can lead to heart attacks and strokes. Conversely, polyunsaturated fats in limited amounts appear to be useful and may even decrease the likelihood of artery disease. That is the crux of the reason for eating polyunsaturated fats and avoiding saturated ones.

To avoid eating too much saturated fat your diet should contain mostly fish, chicken, turkey, vegetables, skim milk or low-fat fortified milk, polyunsaturated margarine and limited amounts of lean beef. Go easy on lard, butter, many solid vegetable margarines, pork and excessive amounts of fat beef.

The most unsaturated (best polyunsaturated) vegetable oils are safflower oil and corn oil. Soybean oil is not as good in this respect. Peanut oil and olive oil are considerably less desirable. Coconut oil is almost all saturated fat and should be avoided.

Dear Doctor—I've heard that milk causes indigestion in some people. Is this true?

Dear Reader—Yes. Some adults cannot digest the lac-tic acid that normally occurs in milk and may develop diarrhea. Milk seems to particularly aggravate two diseases of the intestines. One of these is ulcerative colitis, a disease of recurring massive watery diarrhea. The other is regional enteritis, a peculiar inflammation of the small intestine where it joins the large intestine. This disease often resembles appendicitis and can cause obstruction. President Eisenhower had this problem and was operated upon for an obstruction during his presidency.

Eight Species of Birds Are Endangered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department said today three more types of animals, eight more species of birds and 11 more kinds of fish now face extinction in the United States.

The department's list of endangered species now stands at a record 101, including 14 types of mammals, 50 birds, seven reptiles and amphibians, and 30 species of fish.

A spokesman said the 22 species added to the endangered list today are threatened mainly by pollution, especially from pesticides, or by destruction of their natural habitat. The adverse influences, he said, are "principally man-made."

Pesticides were hampering the reproductive capability, he said, of the brown pelican and the Arctic peregrine falcon.

"The pelican," he said, "may well be biologically extinct right now. We've still got adults and they have a long life span, but we're not getting any young."

The department said it was also preparing a list of species believed on the verge of vanishing, not just from the United States, but from the entire world.

Here is the list of species added to the U.S. "endangered" list:

- Mammals: Hawaiian hoary bat; Morro Bay kangaroo rat; salt marsh harvest mouse.
- Birds: brown pelican; Arctic peregrine falcon; California clapper rail; large Kauai thrush; Molokai thrush; Hawaii akepa; Maui akepa; and Oahu creeper. The last five of these bird species are found in Hawaii.

So You Want To Be

By ERNIE HOOD

Beverly, Greenville, S.C. writes: "I've transformed this apartment of mine into a dream house. I'd like to be an interior decorator. Can you give me some idea of my chances?"

Dear Beverly: Encouragingly enough, more than 15,000 people are engaged full time in interior design and decoration. More than half of them are women.

A slow but steady employment increase is anticipated during the 1970s. Population growth, larger expenditures for home and office furnishings, increasing availability of well-designed furnishings at moderate prices, a growing recognition among middle-income families of the value of decorators' services and increasing use of design services for commercial establishments are among the factors.

Beginning salaries range from $70 to $100 a week. Some are paid straight salaries; others receive salaries plus commissions. Many interior designers having only average skill in this field earn from $5,000 to $7,500 a year. Talented decorators may earn $15,000 and more. Emphasis will be on talented art school or college graduates who majored in design and decoration. Young people without formal education or training will find it increasingly difficult to enter the field.

Badgers Take First Place in District

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Last night in Hammons Stadium, the Arkadelphia Badgers spoiled the Hope Bobcats homecoming and took sole possession of first place in the district standing with a 42-14 win.

The Bobcats are now sporting a 5-2 season record and a 3-1 in conference play. The next game is against the Magnolia Panthers, there, on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Bobcats received the ball and on the first play fumbled, with Arkadelphia recovering at the Hope 41. Two plays moved the ball to the 26 yard line.

On the first down play, quarterback Bill Vining hit Gary Anderson for a 26 yard touchdown pass with 10:41 left in the opening period. The extra point kick by Bill Hurley gave the Badgers a quick 7-0 lead.

Hope took the ensuing kickoff and starting from their own 27, moved steadily down the field. A 28 yard pass kept the Cats alive to the Arkadelphia 42 and a 27 yard pass put the ball on the two yard line.

Three plays later Massanelli kept the ball and dove into the end zone off right tackle with 6:45 left in the first period. Tim Whites' extra point split the uprights and the game was tied up at seven points each.

Arkadelphia took the kickoff and began to move again from their own 33 yard line. Good passing kept the Badgers alive and with 56 seconds left in the period Vining found daylight and hit up the middle himself from three yards out.

The extra point try was wide leaving the Badgers with a 13-7 margin.

Starting from their own 34 Hope moved to the Badgers 48, before a forced punt rolled to the opponent 15 yard line.

Aided by three penalties, the Badgers passed the ball to the Bobcat four yard line, and two plays later Luther Guinn plunged over from the one. After Hurley kicked the PAT, Hope trailed, 20-7, and that score stood during the half.

Arkadelphia then came out and received the second half kickoff and immediately drove 78 yards in ten plays, with Guinn getting the last two. With 7:42 to go, Hurley's kickoff made it, 27-7, Arkadelphia.

Once again the Bobcats could not move and the Badgers, taking the ball at their own 41, took six plays to score. Winning hit Thomas for a 31 yard TD pass with 2:54 left for a 33-7 lead.

Hope came alive on the next series, and starting from their own 20, pushed 80 yards to score. A 45 yard pass to Rusty Quillen from Massanelli kept the drive alive and seconds later, Ray Wheelington caught a 15 yard pass for the second Hope score.

White kicked the PAT and with 25 seconds left in the third period, the score was 33-14, with Hope trailing.

A safety and another touchdown by Guinn gave the Badgers the last points for the final outcome in a game that was marked with penalties and real hard hitting.

Robinson Puts It in Prospective

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — As thousands of happy fans streamed out of Memorial Stadium, a woman walked into the front office of the Baltimore Orioles bearing a gift.

She turned over a small jar containing assorted nuts and bolts, and labeled, "The Big Red Machine."

The colorful nickname had been applied to the Cincinnati Reds during their drive to the National League pennant, but the Orioles had just finished dismantling the machine—piece by piece.

"There's a lot of bird seed in that Big Red Machine now," said first baseman Boog Powell after a 9-3 victory Thursday had given Baltimore the World Series four games to one. "It's the big dead machine now."

The Orioles outscored the Reds 33-20 in five games, finishing with a 15-hit flurry in the final game while scoring nine runs for the second time.

Although the Orioles narrowly missed a sweep, losing the fourth game on Lee May's three run eighth-inning homer, they had to come from behind in three victories—twice overcoming 3-0 leads and once a 4-0 deficit.

Mike Cuellar, one of Baltimore's three 20-game winners, hurled a six-hitter in the clincher, blanking the Reds on two hits after a three-run first inning.

It was Brooks Robinson, 9-for-21 at the plate with two homers and six runs batted in and an outstanding fielder who stood above the crowd.

"This makes up for everything," said Robinson, who went 1-for-19 when the Orioles were upset by the New York Mets in the 1969 World Series.

"We had come back," Powell said. "It was a long winter last year trying to live down the Mets."

The Orioles have now won 228 regular season and postseason games in two years, but outfielder Paul Blair said the Series comeback was still most important. "Maybe people will believe we're a good team now," he said.

Except for Lee May, who had seven hits and eight RBI, Baltimore pitchers just about shackled the other top Cincinnati hitters.

Pete Rose, Johnny Bench, Bobby Tolan and Tony Perez had a combined 14-for-76 at the plate and only six RBI, with Perez 1-for-18 and no RBI.

But Robinson again put it in proper perspective when talking about his diving catches:

"A half-foot difference and they would have been base hits," he said. "I was lucky to be in the right spot. That's the difference between winning and losing."

President's Campaign Expanding

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, expanding his campaign travel schedule almost daily and enlisting his family in the Republican cause, flies into Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin today.

Already scheduled for a five-state campaign swing next Monday and Tuesday—in Ohio, North Dakota, Missouri, Tennessee and Indiana—Nixon added a North Carolina stop. He had announced plans to campaign Oct. 28 in Texas, and said Friday he will go to Illinois and Minnesota on the 29th.

Whereas just two days ago the White House had been talking in terms of vote-seeking trips to 16 or 17 states, Nixon aides now speak of spending a full week or more campaigning in 18 to 20 states.

Nixon's first stop today was the airport at Burlington, Vt., for a rally aimed at boosting the re-election chances of Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty who faces a strong challenge from former Democratic Gov. Philip H. Hoff.

Next state on the President's schedule for the day was New Jersey, with stops at airports in Newark and Teterboro and a GOP conclave at Ocean Grove.

In a crucial New Jersey race, Democratic Sen. Harrison A. Williams is facing Nelson Gross, the state's former GOP chairman.

The chief executive resigned himself to spending much of the day aboard helicopters, flying via that contrivance all the way from Newark to each of two stops planned for Pennsylvania.

The first stop in Pennsylvania will be at the airport in Lancaster, followed by an appearance at the airport in Middletown.

BRIDGE TO NOWHERE. Footbridge across railroad tracks in New York ends in Hudson River. Perhaps it serves commuters using water taxis.

No Alert Has Been Issued, Mitchell Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell says the FBI has heard rumors of plots to kidnap United States government officials but no alert has been issued.

Mitchell, through an aide, responded to a statement by Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, Thursday that the White House had warned Republican congressional leaders of possible political abductions.

Mitchell said Saxbe might have been thinking of a GOP briefing last month at which FBI director J. Edgar Hoover mentioned several activities reportedly planned by revolutionaries, including kidnaping plots.

Thinks Women Already Have It Made, No Need for Any Crazy Yelling

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

"Let Us Out of the Back Room" was the winning speech by Paddy Murphy Andregg before the 1970 National Convention Speak-Off of the B & P Club in Honolulu, H. I., this summer. Space doesn't permit our quoting her stirring words in their entirety, but to answer the question, "What are those crazy women yelling about when everyone knows they've already got it made?" we offer the following excerpts from her speech.

Politicians were running around kissing babies before there was a women's right to vote. Now, they certainly weren't doing this to impress men, but it did impress women, and women influenced men and therefore the vote. Well, we've gotten the right to vote out in the open, but we are still forced to operate from the "back room" in business, and yet women control the consumer dollar and the consumer controls the business—because if that old money isn't coming in, there is no business! And NO ONE in the history of the entire world has ever out-consumed the American female!

Do you know that more money is spent every year in the United States alone on cosmetics than it took to build the entire Roman empire? Now this is awesome, tremendous power.

Properly organized and motivated we could control ANYTHING—even pollution. If we could prove that XYZ Corporation was dumping chemical sludge into our rivers, and we UNANIMOUSLY boycotted their product, how long do you think it would take? I'd guess about two days of zero income and that company would suddenly decide that investing in waste control equipment was just a wonderful idea. But women are not noted for their organized cooperative action. We are quite famous for getting what we want, but in a more subtle, roundabout way. . .

There is a huge book called the Standard Industrial Classification Code that lists a description and title for every known way of making a living. There is not one job in that book that hasn't, at some time, been done SUCCESSFULLY by a woman. During the second World War we quit playing charades, and women came right out in the open and drove trucks and garbage scows! We worked underground and we climbed poles and strung cable, and we ran businesses, from tiny little companies to gigantic corporations—and we did it VERY WELL! But, as soon as the war was over, we allowed all kinds of restrictions and taboos to be levied against us. . .

All we're asking for with legislation for equal employment opportunities is: allow us the common decency of being honest! Permit us to do what we are doing and what we can do under the proper title for the proper salary. Free us from having to operate from the back room or the bedroom or from behind a walnut name plate with a phony title that does not define our true function within that company. . .

Senator, Wife Are Divorced

JUAREZ, Mex. (AP) — Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., has been divorced by Patricia Hollings, his wife of 24 years.

Civil court records disclosed Thursday the decree was granted Oct. 8 on grounds of incompatibility.

Mrs. Hollings was awarded custody of their five children, undisclosed alimony and a property settlement described by the attorneys in the case only as large.

Humphrey Is Branded a Turncoat

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says Hubert H. Humphrey has pulled the "political turncoat act of the year" by "viciously and personally" attacking former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Agnew and his assertion at a political rally Thursday in Jacksonville before coming here at the windup of a four-day campaign swing on behalf of Republican candidates in the Nov. 3 election.

He said he referred to an interview in which the former vice president, now running for the U.S. Senate in Minnesota, was quoted by the New York Times Magazine as saying Johnson was "absolutely paranoid about the war in Vietnam."

Agnew described this as an attack on "a man without whom he would never have been a vice president or a presidential candidate."

Advised of Agnew's remarks, Humphrey commented at St. Paul, Minn.: "I'm glad to be included among the group of illustrious Americans who have so far been tarred and feathered by his illustrious brush. It was bound to come."

Agnew's Florida appearances wind up one of his most lucrative campaign swings, adding half a million dollars to the Republican party treasury in four days.

The amount amassed in the trip to Texas, Delaware and Florida brought his total for the year to more than $6 million, according to campaign aides.

Mass Transit Bill Signed Into a Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who during his recent European trip experienced some of the jet-age traffic snarls that plague American travelers at home, has signed a bill pledging $3.1 billion to help cities develop mass transit systems.

Nixon noted that it took him an hour or two to fly between capital cities but the drive in from the airport "was as great or greater than the time it took to fly hundreds of miles."

The bill he signed Thursday expresses the intention of Congress to provide $10 billion during the next 12 years to improve or build subway and bus systems, thereby lessening commuter auto congestion and air pollution.

The measure earmarks $80 million this fiscal year, with about $1.86 billion to have been spent at the end of five years. The balance of $1.24 billion will be available after that.

Federal grants or loans also will be available to private transit systems. Cities are authorized to enter into contracts at once, with federal aid paying up to two-thirds the cost, to give assurance the full $3.1 billion will be provided.

Police and Army Search for Hostages

OTTAWA (AP) — Armed with combat weapons and wartime powers, thousands of policemen and soldiers swarmed over Quebec today in search of two kidnaped officials and their abductors. More than 250 persons were arrested Friday.

There was no word on the fate of the hostages, British Labor Commissioner James Cross and provincial Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau told the House of Commons he had invoked the War Measures Act Friday "with deep regret" after Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa and Montreal officials told him there was "apprehended insurrection" in the province and that there was a danger of violence and terrorist intimidation.

The term "apprehended insurrection" was a reference to language in the War Measures Act. The World War I law, being used for the first time since World War II, stipulates that its provisions may be invoked when there is "conclusive evidence that war, invasion, or insurrection, real or apprehended, exists."

It sets penalties of five years in prison and $5,000 fines for persons convicted under it, with no bail or release permitted unless authorized by the justice minister.

Trudeau alleged that "all extraordinary powers will be withdrawn as soon as it has been demonstrated that there is a cessation of the violence which made necessary their introduction." He added that there is a "clear understanding" that this will be no later than April 30, 1971.

Trudeau's primary target is the Quebec Liberation Front, which kidnaped Cross and Laporte to gain freedom for 23 persons convicted or awaiting trial for terrorist activities. The government has refused this and other demands made by the kidnapers, although its last offer before the terrorists broke off negotiations Friday morning was to seek parole for five of the 23.

The front, known by its French initials FLQ, has sought since 1963 to make Quebec a separate, French-speaking nation. Until Cross was kidnaped Oct. 5, its primary tactic had been bombing and similar acts of guerrilla terrorism, mainly against targets in Montreal. The prime minister's proclamation Friday officially outlawed the FLQ.

In a nationwide television and radio broadcast Friday night, Trudeau said assumption of the emergency powers was "distasteful" but that Canadian law "as it stands is simply not adequate to deal with systematic terrorism."

Researchers Face Uphill Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest American to win the Nobel Prize for medicine says young researchers today are facing an uphill battle against established scientists like himself in obtaining money for their research.

And he calls it a mistake. Dr. Julius Axelrod, of Rockville, Md., was one of three men named Thursday to share the 1970 Nobel prize for medicine. Also sharing the $80,000 award were Bernard Katz of London and Ulf von Euler of Stockholm.

All three men were honored for their research on the brain—specifically into the "humoral fluids and semifluids transmitters in the nerve terminals and the mechanisms for their storage, release and inactivation."

Axelrod, chief of the pharmacology section of the National Institute of Mental Health, said Thursday his own work had not been affected by recent reductions in federal research funds and he did not expect it to be.

Winnings to Communists

NEW YORK (AP) — Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, says he will donate $500 he won in a New York state lottery to the Daily World, the party newspaper.

Dorothy Robinson, administrative director of the paper, said when informed of the gift Thursday:

"He certainly gave it to a good cause. Too bad Gus didn't win the million-dollar drawing."

Indian Singer Thinks Songs Have Helped

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Why shouldn't an Indian girl be a model or a designer or a painter?" Buffy Sainte-Marie wants to know.

"What kid wants to be told in school that his grandfather was a savage?"

"Right now, Indians can't survive in America physically, mentally, emotionally or artistically."

The 29-year-old Canadian Cree entertainer said in an interview Thursday she thinks her songs about the plight of her fellow American Indians have "helped white people to understand, but after that they haven't done anything."

Meanwhile, Miss Sainte-Marie is doing all she can to provide some action.

In addition to benefit performances on various Indian reservations, she has set up a scholarship fund to help members of her race through law school and is now promoting an organization for the benefit of Indian women.

The Native North American Women's Association was founded two months ago. Miss Sainte-Marie recruited the 200 members during her trips to reservations and Indian communities in cities.

The comely singer-composer, here for a concert at Pasadena Civic Auditorium, said she listens to Indian women's concerns and then comments publicly about them.

"I'm just being a mouthpiece for them," she said. "I'm a visible Indian. People know me and my work, which lets me draw attention to what's going on."

Miss Sainte-Marie holds the government responsible for many of the Indians' problems and says so in song.

In "My Country, Tis of Thy People You're Dying," she sings, "Here's how the bargain was made for the West, with her shivering children in zero degrees."

"Blankets for your land, so the treaties attest. Well, blankets for land is a bargain indeed."

In "Now That the Buffalo Is Gone," Miss Sainte-Marie asks, "Has a change come about, Uncle Sam? Or are you still taking our land? ..."

"It's here and it's now, you must help us dear man, now that the buffalo's gone."

Miss Sainte-Marie wants to reform the education given to Indians on reservations.

"There's very little accuracy in the texts that are used about Indians, and about the way American settlers dealt with them," she said.

She also wants to help make a place for Indian women in American society.

"We're trying to open up the glamour jobs," she said. "Why should an Indian girl have to bleach her hair to be accepted?"

Mrs. Nixon to Visit Michigan

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Lenore Romney, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate in the Nov. 3 election, has announced that Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will visit the Detroit area Monday.

Mrs. Romney is regarded as the underdog in her race against the incumbent Democrat, Philip A. Hart.

She said Thursday she and Mrs. Nixon would tour the Detroit metropolitan area.

U.S. Troop Reduction Continues

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today new American troop reductions numbering nearly 2,000 men. Other sources said the South Vietnamese army is planning a new offensive into Cambodia to ensure an effective overall U.S. withdrawal program.

The command said two infantry battalions from the 4th Division, based in the central highlands, have been withdrawn from combat and will be inactivated in ceremonies at Ft. Lewis, Wash. They are the 2nd Battalion, 35th Infantry, 1st Brigade, and the 2nd Battalion (Mechanized), 8th Infantry, 2nd Brigade.

The 1st and 2nd Brigades of the 4th Infantry Division are being deactivated as part of President Nixon's fifth round of troop withdrawals.

In the deactivated units, only those men who have completed their tours will return home. Those who have a significant part of their one year tour remaining will be assigned to other units still active in Vietnam.

The U.S. Command also announced the deactivation of the war dog detachment of the 4th Division. The detachment is made up of about 80 handlers and their dogs.

Earlier, informed sources said South Vietnamese forces are planning new offensives in Cambodia and will have some support from American bombers.

The aim is to counter a North Vietnamese buildup during the dry season, which has just begun, and to keep the enemy away from the interior of South Vietnam to allow the withdrawal of American troops with minimum casualties.

A number of U.S. units, including the 25th Infantry Division, are positioned in the Saigon region for redeployment by Christmas as part of President Nixon's latest cutback of 40,000 troops to be made by Dec. 31.

One top-ranking South Vietnamese field commander said he was waiting for the height of the dry season "to launch deeper and larger operations into Cambodia."

"Our armor is restricted until the roads are entirely dry," he said.

Must Report Expenses He Knows About

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The director of The Election Laws Institute says candidates should be able to safely rely on their own judgment when deciding what is necessary under a law requiring campaign expenditure reports.

Thomas A. Glaze said Thursday that a candidate must report expenditures he knew about. The reports are required under the Arkansas Election Code. The first deadline for such reports apparently is Oct. 25.

Glaze said the candidate would not be excused from responsibility for the reporting of expenditures merely because someone else was authorized to make or permit expenditures in behalf of the candidate. Glaze said that would be the same as the candidate himself making or permitting the expenditures.

Under questioning from a newsman, Glaze said that some interpretation could be involved in determining whether a candidate "knew about" expenditures in a sense that would make him responsible for reporting them.

Given the example of supporters who notify a campaign organization that they will pay for certain unspecified expenses of unspecified amounts, Glaze said, "That's one of the gray areas where it's difficult to determine whether the candidate is accountable."
